3. What fear does the author express?
4. How can we save the world from destruction?
5. Who are the great persons mentioned in the passage?
6. What is the road to progress?

The world is going ahead at a tremendous speed. But all this progress will be shattered if we do not secure peace. Scientific inventions and advancement of technological knowledge have brought the world closer. If one country suffers, all will have to suffer to some extent. We have become inter-responsible. - I his has brought about the necessity of international relationship. People should understand that all human beings are brothers. The narrow bounds of nationalism and patriotism have to be shed.

Unless we understand the lesson of 'Live and let live', we stand on our last legs. If another breaks out, it will destroy the entire race of humanity. If we establish love and sympathy, goodwill and happiness among ourselves, we can still save the world from destruction. 'Live and let live' is a sound religion. From Gautam Buddha to Mahatma Gandhi, a number of great persons have pleaded for this mutual love and brotherly feelings. Were the inter-dependent children of the same Father in heaven. We should, therefore, live in peace. This is the only way by which we can go along the road to progress.

6. (A) Read the following passage and answer the questions given below :

After knowledge there is no other passion which has done so much good to mankind as the love of money. It is to the love of money that we owe all trade and commerce, in other words, the possession of every comfort and luxury which our own country is unable to supply. Trade and commerce have made us familiar with productions of many lands, have awakened curiosity, and have widened our ideas by bringing us in contact with nations of various manners, speech and thought. They have supplied an outlet for energies, which would otherwise have been wasted, have accustomed men to habits of enterprise, forethought and calculation, have communicated to us many arts of great utility and have put us in possession of some of the most valuable remedies with which we are acquainted either to live or to lessen pain. These things we owe to the love of money. If the theologians could succeed in their desire to destroy that love, all these things would cease and should relapse into barbarism.

Questions:

(i) Name the two things which have done great good to mankind.

(ii) Enumerate the advantages, trade and commerce have brought about.

(iii) We owe all trade and commerce to?

(iv) How does our country provide every comfort and luxury to us?

(v) Which is the most valuable possession mentioned in the passage ?

(vi) How would the people return to the state of barbarism ?

It seems unbelievable but a crude practice, that of burying infants and children alive — for a while — to fulfil a vow, still prevails at a temple in Madurai District. The 500-year-old custom is still practised by the villagers once every five years at the temple. Sometimes 150 children, including infants, are buried alive for a few minutes in a pit. In the case of infants, they are made unconscious by sprinkling some holy water before placing them in the pit while in the case of boys and girls, they are buried in a conscious state. By doing this, the villagers fulfil their vow for a cure for incurable diseases of children and the occasion is celebrated as a festival a week after the new moon day. As per the custom, the temple priest visits the houses of those who have taken the vow for some preliminary rituals. The unconscious children are covered with a piece of cloth and carried to the burial pit by maternal uncles. The children are then placed in the pit, which is covered with bushes and thorns. After a few minutes, they are taken out of the pit on a signal from the priest. He sprinkles the holy water and brings the infants back to consciousness.

Questions:

- (i) What unusual practice is described in the passage?
